++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mainly dry at first, showers later tonight and on Saturday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Although the odd shower can't be ruled out at first, most parts dry for much of the night, before showery rain spreads from the south towards morning. Rain may be heavy and thundery in places. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Saturday:
Showery rain likely across the region, this locally heavy and thundery, but showers becoming more scattered from the south during the afternoon and brightening up later in the day. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Rather warm Sunday, with sunny spells and some heavy, locally thundery showers. Monday bright with scattered showers, rain likely by evening. Overnight rain, then windy and cooler with showers Tuesday.
